Juve Patent UK 2021 rankings recognise EIP expertise

Juve Patent has published its UK rankings for 2021 in which EIP's litigation and filing practices receive recommendations.

EIP's litigation practice rises in the rankings to four stars (out of five) with editorial commenting that 'hardly any other UK patent firm has achieved such important litigation victories in the past two years, and at the same time seen such dynamic personnel growth as EIP.' The editorial mentions the team's notable success in the UK Supreme Court and that the ruling had 'made headlines around the world in summer 2020'. It also notes that 'few other UK prosecution teams have seen such strong growth as EIP' and that the firm 'has become a role model for how to develop a mixed patent practice with patent attorneys and lawyers.'

Head of litigation, Gary Moss is listed as a leading individual for litigation with "terrific, deep knowledge of FRAND matters both within the UK and internationally" who is a "no nonsense litigator who gets the job done in a very tenacious way".

To complement the firm's patent litigation ranking, our patent filing team is recommended for medical technology, digital communication and computer technology, and electronics. In addition, several partners are listed as recommended individuals:

Andrew Sharples for digital communication and computer technology; Darren Smyth for chemistry and digital communication and computer technology; and Jerome Spaargaren for digital communication and computer technology and electronics.
