Four EIP associates recognised as “Rising Stars”

Four EIP associates have been recognised among the UK’s up-and-coming IP practitioners.

Patent attorneys Tim Belcher, Gemma Wooden, Felix Hall and solicitor Catherine Howell, have been ranked as “Rising Stars” in the 2019 edition of IP Stars, published by Managing Intellectual Property Magazine.

Rising Stars are those below partner level who are expected to become prominent practitioners in the future in their firm and jurisdiction.

Individuals are selected based upon information submitted by firms, together with recommendations received from clients and feedback from the wider IP market.
